Our Daily Press.

HONGKONG, APRIL 10TH, 1894.

THE conversion of the four per cent. debentures into three-and-a-half per cent. inscribed stock will result in an annual saving to the Colony of £700 a year, or, at the present rate of exchange, $7,000. The saving is not very considerable, but is worth making. The Loan Ordinance of 1886 provided that "Every debenture issued under this Ordinance shall be for a sum of not less than "one hundred pounds sterling, carrying interest at a rate not exceeding four and-a-"half per centum per annum payable half "yearly, and shall be paid off at par at any "time after the expiration of five years, but "not later than twenty years from the date "of issue." The loan was for £200,000 and was issued at four per cent. The notice now issued by the Crown Agents states that £140,000 of the debentures may be converted into three and a half per cents and that the four per cents will be paid off in September next. The loan of last year was issued at three-and-a-half per cent. and as it stands at a premium on the London market there is little doubt that the holders of the four per cents will accept the conversion scheme rather than be paid off, but if they select the latter alternative the Government is in a position to pay the amount required, as it has still in hand in London almost the whole of last year's loan. The latter was issued not in the form of debentures, but inscribed stock Ordinance 1 of 1893 providing that all future loans should be issued in that form. The holders of the debentures who avail themselves of the option of conversion will therefore have the advantage of a higher form of security not liable to be paid off for fifty years.

The Crown Agents in their advertisement respecting the conversion issued the following caution:—"The revenues of the Colony of "Hongkong alone are liable in respect "of the above stock and the dividends "thereon, and the Consolidated Fund of "the United Kingdom and the Commis-"sioners of Her Majesty's Treasury are "not, directly or indirectly, liable or re-"sponsible for the payment of the stock "or dividends thereon, or for any matter "relating thereto.—Act 40 and 41 Vict., cap. "59." No doubt the Colony will be able to discharge its liabilities, and should occasion require it might safely venture to extend its borrowings, but if the home authorities think it necessary so obtrusively to disclaim responsibility it would only be reasonable that they should refrain from dictating the form in which the loan, if any further loan be required, should be issued. If the colony prefers to borrow in local currency instead of gambling in exchange there is no reason why it should not be allowed to do so, but in respect of both the previous loans, although local opinion was emphatically in favour of their issue in silver, and the strongest arguments were put forward in favour of that course, the colony was compelled to borrow in gold, at a loss, as regards the first loan, of 1s. 2d. in the dollar, and as regards the second of 8d. in the dollar, taking exchange at its present level. Whether this is the limit of the loss remains to be seen. If exchange should fall, as some predict, to 1s. 6d. it would mean that the Colony would have to repay somewhere in the neighbourhood of two dollars for every one borrowed. At present, however, there seems some reason to think that silver has at last touched bottom, though this supposition may prove as fallacious as previous ones of a like character. If exchange should go up of course the loss would be reduced, but whatever the course of exchange may be the Colony ought to profit by its past experience and resist any temptation to gamble in an outside currency should it have occasion to borrow again.

It is reported in Japanese papers that concurrently with the murder of Kim-ok-Kiun at Shanghai a plot for the murder of his companion in exile, Boku-ei-ko, at Tokyo, was discovered.

According to a telegram from Yokohama to the Kyogo News, dated April 2nd, Nectarine and fifty other houses in Yoshiwara were destroyed by fire at two o'clock that morning. One body, believed to be that of a foreigner, was found in the ruins.

At a meeting of members of the Kyogo and Osaka Chamber of Commerce, held on the 29th ult., the difficulty of securing a chairman, which had led to the resignation of the Committee, was overcome by the election of Mr. H. St. John Browne, and that gentleman consenting to serve, the Committee withdrew their resignations.

At Nagasaki Capt. Brownell, of the British ship Kambira, has been sentenced to three months' imprisonment for firing a revolver at the boatswain on the voyage out from Cardiff. The shooting arose out of a quarrel between the boatswain and the second officer, the latter being the captain's son. In consequence of the quarrel the boatswain was dictated and on his refusing to work before the mast the captain fired five shots at him, but it did not appear that any of them took effect.

The British steam sealing schooner Wordsworth, recently put up for sale by public auction at Yokohama, and withdrawn at $6,400) owing to the reserve exceeding that amount, was again put up for sale on the 29th ult., and sold to Capt. Martin for $5,200, thus showing a loss of $1,200 on the previous offer. A bid of $6,000, made by the chief engineer, on behalf of the crew, had to be cancelled, owing to the inability to pay one-third of the purchase money on the fall of the hammer.

At the annual meeting of the Yokohama Chamber of Commerce held on the 27th ult. the following resolution was unanimously adopted:—That the incoming Committee be instructed to at once draw up a memorial for transmission to the London Chamber of Commerce and other Chambers of Europe and America, open for signature not only to members of the Chamber but to the entire foreign community of Yokohama (and if thought advisable to those of Tokio) assuring the London Chamber of sympathy and, as far as possible, co-operation in any representation they have made or may yet make, to the British Government having for its object the re-opening of the Brussels Monetary Conference, and, it is to be hoped, consequent rehabilitation of silver.

The half-yearly report and balance sheet of the Directors of the Yokohama Specie Bank shows gross profits for the half year, including yen 22,630 brought forward from last accounts, amounting to yen 1,359,102. From this, however, has been deducted yen 899,803 for current expenses, interest on deposits, &c., and yen 80,000 as provision for doubtful debts, leaving a balance of yen 479,199, out of which yen 14,651 has been written off for officials' remuneration. The Directors now propose that yen 45,000 be added to the Reserve Fund, increasing its total to yen 3,514,300, and that yen 30,000 be reserved for the new building contemplated; and out of the remainder they recommend a dividend at the rate of fourteen per cent. per annum, which will absorb yen 210,000 on the old shares, and yen 105,000 on the new shares, making a total of yen 315,000. The balance, yen 34,548, will be carried forward to the credit of next account.

"There have been fifty foreign sealing vessels in Japanese waters this year," says the Tokyo Asahi Shimbun, "and their take has averaged thirty thousand yen each, which means an aggregate of 1½ million yen. Seals bear young once only per annum, and it takes four years of growth before their fur is worth anything. Hence it will be seen that at this rate the seas of Japan will soon be denuded of seals altogether." We (Japan Mail) can understand and sympathise with the desire of the Japanese to institute some proper control of seal fishing in the empire's waters, but nothing is to be gained by exaggerating the facts of the case. It is obviously beyond the mark to speak of fifty sealers capturing thirty thousand yen worth each; probably the aggregate does not exceed one half of that amount. Besides, Japanese journals are too apt to assume that the slightest taking of Japanese waters. There is nothing to prove that. On the contrary, since the majority of the vessels coming to the East for sealing purposes now confine themselves to pelagic operations, it is more than likely that they take very few seals in Japanese waters.

ROYAL HONGKONG YACHT CLUB.

Sunday's racing in the sixteenth Club race was by no means an enjoyable entertainment for those who ventured out. A strong hard breeze in the early morning gave promise of a good sail, but afterwards the wind died away to almost nothing and gave way to rain showers. Everyone seemed to expect wind at some time, as all the first class started with reefed mainsails, notwithstanding the light airs which prevailed at the time. Events proved how wrong they were, for at no time of the day was a reef either necessary or desirable. Ladybird again showed the way from start to finish and won with comparative ease from Dart, who beat Petrel for third place. Payne was unplaced once more and will have to wake up if she means to repeat her last year's performance.

In the second class only four boats faced the starter, and of these Cam had only to get placed to settle the question of champion of her class. This she succeeded in doing and thus becomes champion of the second class for 1893-94. Pearl at last found her day and is now close up on She for second prize in this class. Kitten is possible may defeat them both, but at present it looks unlikely.

Next Sunday will see the last Club race of the competition, and either Dart or Payne will become champion for the year.

Last Sunday's times of finishing and the total points up to date are as follows:—

In a letter to Nature Professor Newton gives the "true" account of the purchase of the great auk's egg, about which we have heard so much recently, by Mr. Yarrell. It was found hanging on a string with a number of other eggs in a curiosity shop of mean appearance in Paris, on asking its price Mr. Yarrell was told that it was "worth two francs" on account of its size. The boy had struck someone. The three of us then went in the Hotel bar, and we saw three boys there and a European living on the floor. About half a minute afterwards the manager came in. I do not see the boy in Court who came in up to me with the stick in his hand. The first defendant was not the boy, nor the second either. They are both employed in the bar. I was sent for by the police by the manager. I was the first defendant was accused of striking the deceased I told the witness Razavet that he was mistaken.

Cross-examined—Myself, two Chinamen, and a European constable came up to the Central Station. The second defendant and the man who I saw with the stick in his hand came up to the Central Station with me that night. I told the Inspector that the other Chinaman, who is not here now, had had the stick in his hand. I do not know why the police did not arrest him. I am certain that the first defendant is not the boy. I pointed out the boy who had the stick while I was in the bar that night, and at that time the police were there.

Dr. James A. Lowson, sworn, said—I am Acting Superintendent of the Government Civil Hospital. On April 1st, during supper I was rung up about half-past 8 by telephone. The ring up about half-past 8 by telephone. Wellington Barracks. At 9.30 I found that the man, Arthur William Jinks, was in the waiting room, in an ambulance. I got him on the table and found that he was comatose with pupils widely dilated and breathing slowly. I at first thought that the man was under the influence of liquor. I washed out his stomach, gave him some coffee, and about ten minutes after that he stopped breathing. I then came to the conclusion that he was suffering from cerebral hemorrhage. I had noticed that he had a bruise on the right forehead. After he stopped breathing we carried on artificial respiration but he died on the following morning at 7.20. I held a post-mortem with Drs. Castle and Marques and Fleet-Surgeon Cross. Deputy Inspector General Knott and Dr. Wyndomb Myers were also present. We found that the man died from hemorrhage in the cranium, caused by some injury. A blow might have done it, or a fall. At 6.30 in the morning I had sent for Dr. Knott and I told him that I proposed to trepan. At 7 a.m. the man's condition was so desperate that I trepanned myself and took about ½ oz. of blood clot from the brain. He was in as his pulse had practically stopped. I might add that when the head was shaved it was found that there was slight fusi-n of blood beneath the scalp on the same place. That is the posterior parietal region.

Mr. Dennys—That is not on the forehead anywhere, is it?

Dr. Lowson—No, it is at the back part of the head. The skull was fractured at the base, and in the middle fossa, the fracture extending almost right across.

After further formal evidence the enquiry was adjourned until Wednesday at 2.15 p.m.

POLICE COURT.

THE FATAL AFFRAY IN THE HONGKONG HOTEL.

Chee Sing Chi, 17 bar boy, was charged with the manslaughter of Arthur William Jinks in the Hongkong Hotel on the last inst., and Chin Tat Chu, 33, bar boy, was charged with being concerned in causing the death of the said Arthur William Jinks.

Mr. G. C. C. Master appeared for the prosecution and Mr. H. L. Dennys defended.

Samuel Thomas Hynd was the first witness called. He said—I am chief petty officer belonging to H.M.S. Tamar. I am chief gunner's mate on board that ship. On Sunday, the 1st, about 1.15 p.m. I went on board the Empress of China, in company with another chief petty officer called O'Brien and a quartermaster named Wilson. We stayed there until 5 o'clock and then returned to the Tamar, leaving O'Brien on board. Wilson and I then went ashore, landing at Pedder's Wharf. We visited the Hongkong Hotel bar at six o'clock and after having a drink went on to the Seamen's Club, where we stayed a good while. I went back to the Hongkong Hotel but at what time I cannot exactly say. I cannot recollect whether the 9 o'clock gun had been fired. I was in company with the deceased, Jinks. I do not remember exactly what happened in the bar of the Hongkong Hotel. I had a little drink in me. I did not see the stick produced. I saw a disturbance going on, but I did not know who was concerned in it. I should imagine that Jinks was drunk when he went in. The deceased was a sick boith attendant on board the Tamar. The only thing that I am clear about is that the deceased and myself went into the Hongkong Hotel together some time between 8 o'clock and 9.30 p.m., that there was a row, and that I cleared, leaving Jinks there.

George Razalet, sworn, said—I am second gunner in the P and O. Company. I belong to the Hongkong office. I went to St. Peter's Church on Sunday evening, the 1st inst., and walked back from there to the Hongkong Hotel. I went into the bar and as far as I remember it was about half-past eight. When I got in I saw two men standing at the other end of the bar and from their uniforms I took them to be American sailors. One of them was having a dispute with the second defendant and another bar boy. He took off his coat and the second defendant took a chair to defend himself. In the row which ensued the first defendant jumped over the counter with a heavy piece of wood and struck the deceased, who had fallen on the ground with the boys on the top of him, a blow on the side of the head. The deceased was very drunk, and could hardly stand. When the second defendant raised the chair the deceased wrenched it from him and then a general melee took place, the whole three falling on the floor. When the blow was struck there were present only myself, the second officer of the Fatshan, the defendants, and two other boys who were behind the bar. The deceased was bleeding from his nose and ears and mouth and a little from one eye. The deceased's head did not strike the floor. I did not see the third boy do anything, although he came out from behind the counter after the man was struck. Mr. Tucker came in by the door behind the counter. I pointed out the first defendant as the boy who struck the man. The second defendant was standing outside the bar.

Cross-examined—I ran after the first defendant and we were quite close together when we got to the Indian watchman. The boy said something to the Indian and in consequence the watchman caught me. The boy then ran into the main entrance and I followed into the office and spoke to the Portuguese clerk. Mr. Tucker almost immediately came down. Mr. Tucker and I then walked down Pedder's Street into the bar and as we entered I saw the first defendant come in from the main passage which runs from the Praya to Queen's Road. When I left to run after the first defendant, the second defendant was on the top of the deceased, and another bar boy was in front of the bar. I am not a very frequent visitor at the bar, and I do not know, of my own knowledge, how many boys are employed there, and I do not know in what capacity they are employed. I have seen the first defendant there for about three months, but he may have been there longer. The second defendant I have known for some time. I am not positive that up to the time I left the bar—shaking the boy—I had left the bar. When I first entered the bar the deceased was taking off his coat and he then rolled up his shirt sleeves. He was very drunk and excited and fitting out in all directions very wildly. I cannot say positively that the deceased's head did not strike anything. I saw him hit something but I do not know exactly what it was. The floor of the Hotel is encaustic tile and I do not know whether his head struck it. I did not hear the man's head strike the floor, but I did hear the wood strike his head. It must have been the flat side of the wood, and it hit him on the left side of the forehead because that side was turned upwards. The man who struck the blow jumped over the counter with the stick in his hand, and the whole thing was over in a moment. When I first pointed out the first defendant as the one who struck the blow, all the other boys said that I was mistaken and that another boy had done it.

Thomas Gilchrist, sworn, said—I am third engineer of the steamship Fatshan. I reported the night of the 1st inst. About 6.30 on that day I went into the lower bar of the Hongkong Hotel, entering by the Pedder's Street door. Two of the China boys were having a row with the deceased. The deceased was without his jacket. They were at the extreme east end of the bar, and appeared to be trying to wrestle. I could not say whether they had grappled with him, but suddenly they all fell, the deceased being underneath. I then saw the first defendant jump over the counter with a stick in his hand, and strike the deceased over the head. I cannot say that I heard any noise of the blow. The second defendant was one of the boys fighting with the deceased, and there was also another Chinaboy on the top of the European when the blow was struck. As soon as he struck him the first defendant ran out of the Praya door but I cannot say what he did with the stick. It was not a walking stick but a thick piece of wood about three or four inches square. I was at the west end of the bar during the occurrence. I saw the last witness in the bar at the time. He was there when I arrived. There were no other Europeans present. I did not hear any of the men call for help. The men fell between two tables. I did not hear any blow of striking against anything. Their heads were towards the fireplace, but they were too far off to have struck it. They did not strike the mantelpiece or the tables. When the first defendant ran out of the entrance the last witness followed him but returned almost immediately. I know both the defendants by sight very well. I cannot say whether the deceased was drunk or sober.

Cross-examined—There is a wooden screen at the Pedder's Street entrance to the bar. I entered at that side and Mr. Razavet was then quite inside and could see everything that went on. There were no other Europeans in the bar at the time that I got in, but as I entered two parties went out of the other door. I could not say who they were but they were in uniform and I think blue jackets. I did not notice whether they carried anything with them. I never saw the deceased's coat although the two men might have taken it with them. I saw no uniform which would indicate what the deceased was. I spoke to one of the bar boys and asked for a drink when I went in, although this happened, and I did not get a drink. I cannot say exactly how many boys were left behind the bar when the attack on the deceased was made by the first defendant. When the two boys and the deceased fell they did not stumble over anything. I did not see the European or either of the Chinese take up a chair, nor did I see the European wrench a chair from the Chinese. It was only a few seconds before the men fell after I got in. I heard no sound of any blow. I was present when the first defendant was pointed out to the police. The second defendant and another boy said that it was not him.

Shiek Panjar, watchman at the Hongkong Hotel, said—About 8.50 p.m. on Sunday, April 1st, I was standing at the Pedder's Street entrance to the Hotel. I saw a boy running towards me with a piece of wood in his hand. He was followed by a European gentleman identified as Mr. Razavet. He came up to me and complained to me that a European had struck him. While I was questioning him the European said that the boy had struck someone. The three of us then went in the Hotel bar, and we saw three boys there and a European lying on the floor. About half a minute afterwards the manager came in. I do not see the boy in Court who came up to me with the stick in his hand. The first defendant was not the boy, nor the second either. They are both employed in the bar. I was sent for by the police by the manager. I told the first defendant was accused of striking the deceased I told the witness Razavet that he was mistaken.

Cross-examined—Myself, two Chinamen, and a European constable came up to the Central Station. The second defendant and the man who I saw with the stick in his hand came up to the Central Station with me that night. I told the Inspector that the other Chinaman, who is not here now, had had the stick in his hand. I do not know why the police did not arrest him. I am certain that the first defendant is not the boy. I pointed out the boy who had the stick while I was in the bar that night, and at that time the police were there.

Dr. James A. Lowson, sworn, said—I am Acting Superintendent of the Government Civil Hospital. On April 1st, during supper I was rung up about half-past 8 by telephone. The Wellington Barracks. At 9.30 I found that the man, Arthur William Jinks, was in the waiting room, in an ambulance. I got him on the table and found that he was comatose with pupils widely dilated and breathing slowly. I at first thought that the man was under the influence of liquor. I washed out his stomach, gave him some coffee, and about ten minutes after that he stopped breathing. I then came to the conclusion that he was suffering from cerebral hemorrhage. I had noticed that he had a bruise on the right forehead. After he stopped breathing we carried on artificial respiration but he died on the following morning at 7.20. I held a post-mortem with Drs. Castle and Marques and Fleet-Surgeon Cross. Deputy Inspector General Knott and Dr. Wyndomb Myers were also present. We found that the man died from hemorrhage in the cranium, caused by some injury. A blow might have done it, or a fall. At 6.30 in the morning I had sent for Dr. Knott and I told him that I proposed to trepan. At 7 a.m. the man's condition was so desperate that I trepanned myself and took about ½ oz. of blood clot from the brain. He was in as his pulse had practically stopped. I might add that when the head was shaved it was found that there was slight fusi-n of blood beneath the scalp on the same place. That is the posterior parietal region.

Mr. Dennys—That is not on the forehead anywhere, is it?

Dr. Lowson—No, it is at the back part of the head. The skull was fractured at the base, and in the middle fossa, the fracture extending almost right across.

After further formal evidence the enquiry was adjourned until Wednesday at 2.15 p.m.

RACIAL CHARACTERISTICS OF THE MACAENSE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS."

SIR,—With regard to your leader of this morning, permit me to offer, with due deference, some explanation on a point which, if uncontradicted, may cause an impression not quite correct. When you say that there no longer exist any family ties between the people of Macao and that of Portugal, the remark is not applicable in a general sense. There are many Macao families with good connections in Portugal. As a matter of fact, marriages are by no means infrequent between the daughters of respectable Macaense citizens with well connected naval, military, and civil officers of the colony. In the history of Portuguese colonisation a conspicuous phase was the absence of racial prejudices. Unlike other proud conquerors, the Portuguese, even in their palmy days, never despised the colonists simply because they were of another race. The constitution of Portugal recognises no difference between home-born and colonial Portuguese. And as regards the Macaenses, they may well consider themselves at heart Portuguese; during the Castilian domination in Portugal, the Spanish flag flew in every part of the Portuguese dominion but Macao; there alone the Portuguese flag waved defiantly and patriotically.

Nor is the racial element of the Macaenses swamped by intermarriage with the Chinese. There are, it is true, some Macaenses of distant Chinese origin, but these are quite a European mixed race, like and will be found, as usual, to show an advance on preceding years both in fulness and accuracy of information.

THE CHINA DIRECTORY.

This is the
THIRTY-SECOND ANNUAL ISSUE,

The DIRECTORY covers the whole of the ports and cities of the Far East, from Penang to Vladivostock in which Europeans reside.

Not only is the Directory as full and complete, in each case as it can be made, but each Colony, in each case as it can be made, but each Colony, Port, or Settlement is prefaced by a DESCRIPTION, carefully revised each year, some of which will serve as accurate GUIDES for the Tourist, giving every detail in connection with the places, their History, Topography, &c., &c.

The Information afforded in these Descriptions alone would suffice to fill an ordinary volume, consisting of over EIGHTY highly interesting articles, packed with facts concisely set out, and containing statistics of the TRADE of each Country and Port.

The work contains Directories and Descriptions of IMPERIAL QUARTO.

ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY,
WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION.

An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications.

To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration:—Chalmers Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto published.

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasionally.

It comprises upwards of two thousand large quarto pages.

4 Vols. IMPERIAL QUARTO. Price, $20.

A Large REDUCTION in PRICE is made to Purchasers of SIX or more Copies.
